CHARGED WITH FORGING NAME OF REV. SKINNER

E. P. Kellam Said to Have Obtained $800 Couch From Second Baptist Church by Fraud.

GAVE ORDER TO JANITOR Had Furniture Hauled in Moving Van to Second-Hand Store, Where It Was Recovered—Police Say There Will Be Other Charges.

E. P. Kellam, thirty-three years old, an upholsterer, who was arrested on Broad Street Saturday afternoon by Detective Sergeants Bailey and Wildshire and locked up at the Second Precinct Station, was last night served with a warrant charging him with forgery.

It is alleged that the man forged the name of Rev. T. Charlett Skinner, D. D., pastor of the Second Baptist Church, to a note directed to the church janitor and ordering him to deliver to the bearer a $800 leather couch.

The alleged forgery occurred some weeks ago, and members of detective force have been searching for Kellam since that time. Kellam left town shortly after the alleged forgery was reported to the police, and had just returned when he was arrested.

FIXED DEALER

According to Detectives Kregel and Atkinson, Kellam forged the name of Dr. Skinner to the note and secured the couch from the church janitor.

Last week J. Ludwell Hill reported to the police that his name had been forged to an order directing the janitor of the Hanover Avenue Christian Church to deliver seven chairs to the driver of a delivery wagon.

Officers allowing the chairs to be moved to the janitor called Mr. Hill over the telephone and ordered him to check the order and report that to such order had been given. Detectives at once began an investigation and learned that the driver of the wagon had been given the order by a man, the description of whom they do not believe that Kellam was again at work.

According to the police, Kellam has been charged in previous of this kind some time, and only a few months ago was in police court on a charge of stealing a handsome rocking chair from A. Beane Blair, of 401 West Franklin Street. Mr. Blair did not press the prosecution, his chair having been recovered by detectives, and Kellam was discharged.

RICHMOND COLLEGE OPENS THIS WEEK

Will Occupy New Plant at West-hampton on Which $1,052,000 Has Been Expended.

BUILDINGS READY FOR USE Students Matriculate on Thursday—New Dormitories Ready for Occupancy To-Morrow.

With all the buildings, except the auditorium and science laboratory, finished and completely furnished, Greater Richmond College will be ready for the opening on Thursday morning and the dormitories will be ready for occupancy by to-morrow night.

The outlook for the attendance is very good, said President F. W. Boatwright, and there is every indication that the city patronage will exceed that of any previous year.

The general patronage will be larger than ever before in the history of the institution. The patronage of Westhampton College (the woman's college) will not fall all the accommodations, but it will be a record for the city.

The formal opening of the college will take place next week, when the grounds and buildings will be turned over to President Boatwright by the governing committee, with appropriate exercises.

Richmond College has been in existence for eighty-two years, and during that time it has made a steady upward, often against great odds, until it is now the greatest academic institution of its standing in the State, and one of the greatest in the South.

The board of trustees, which is the governing body of the college, has decided to accept of the city a sum of $1,052,000 for the purchase of the new plant.

The new plant consists of five large central structures and two groups of dormitories, for which the city has broken in May, 1911. The dormitories will accommodate 275 students, and the auditorium will seat 1,500 people.

The new plant will be a model of modern architecture, and will be a credit to the city. It will be a landmark in the city's history.

BIDS FOR STREET PAVING TO BE OPENED TUESDAY

City Inviting Proposals for Largest Surface Contract in Its History.

WILL AGGREGATE, $275,000 Members of Administrative Board Express Opposition to Paying for Expensive Patented Formulas. Wide Latitude Allowed in Bidding.

Bids for paving, aggregating in value $275,000, will be opened by the Administrative Board to-morrow and referred to the City Engineer for tabulation and report.

The comprehensive paving program was made possible by the recent $500,000 bond issue for surface improvements—the first bond issue of the city since 1908.

The board is inclined to follow the practice of the city of Baltimore, which is now engaged in the most ambitious paving program in its history.

It is regarded as probable that the Administrative Board will include in the more expensive forms of asphalt paving only where such paving is absolutely necessary.

Some members of the board have indicated their reluctance to pay for patented formulas, and declared his purpose to vote in favor of non-patented paving laid in accordance with city specifications.

The board is inclined to follow the practice of the city of Baltimore, which is now engaged in the most ambitious paving program in its history.

According to Mayor Preston, who discussed the paving problem with local authorities at the time of his visit in this city several weeks ago, Baltimore has found it most economical to lay paving in accordance with the city engineer's formula, and is rightly barring all patented pavings as needlessly expensive.

ROAD ENGINEERS SPEAKERS ON PAVING In adopting a paving policy in which the selection of materials and ingredients is left to the City Engineering Department, the city authorities are endeavoring to save money, which is a very important factor in the city's budget.

Mr. Foote is at one also with the City Engineer in designating the natural lake asphalt for use as a binder in the paving of the city streets.

"Considering that the asphalt itself is simply the adhesive and cohesive agent which binds together the stone and sand particles which form the aggregate of the surfacing material of a pavement, and is therefore but a small part of the cost of a finished street, considering also that the difference between the natural lake asphalt and the imitation asphalt is less than 10 per cent of the cost of the entire pavement, every city and county official must realize the importance of this question."

"Whenever in so-called asphalt roads and pavements, the material has become 'waxy' that is, uneven on the surface, and where the bituminous material has become soft and sticky, it is a sign that the asphalt is of inferior quality, and that the pavement is of inferior quality."

A Wise Conclusion. If I carry money around in my pocket, there is always some good person to come along and make me spend it; but when I have a check book, it is harder to get me to write a check—in this way a CHECK BOOK SAVES ME MONEY.
